Big fish, small fish—

From Clayton Blakley Rotary Club

The fourth annual "Take a Kid Fishin' in Our Community Day" on April 24 was once again a hit, with nearly 250 kids and many adults enjoying near perfect weather. Participants bagged close to 100 fish.

The event took place at the pond near Our Lady of Grace School, and featured fishing clinics and "loaner" fishing poles provided by Department of Fish and Game. Also on scene were a Mobile Safety Center with educational lessons by local police and fire departments, hot dog,, fun giveaways for the kids, and of course, plenty of worms.

This year a competition was again held for both the biggest fish and smallest fish, and the fish were both bigger and smaller than last year's winners, ranging from a diminutive 4" to a hefty 20" specimen. Winners received fishing pole prizes donated by event sponsor Kokanee Power. Additional fishing equipment was awarded to winners of a raffle drawing.

Event founders Tony Schwall and Drew Gidloff, past presidents of the West Sacramento Centennial and West Sacramento Rotary Clubs, were pleased to see the event continue to engage the community and draw large crowds of people to meet their neighbors and make new friends. Sponsors this year included the West Sacramento Rotary Club and Centennial Rotary Club of West Sacramento, West Sacramento Parks & Recreation, West Sacramento Chamber, Department of Fish & Game, Walmart, Kokanee Power, Waste Management and Sportsman's Warehouse.

'Civic leaders' to be honored at May 12 event

A handful of West Sacramentans will be honored by Mayor Christopher Cabaldon for "civic leadership" at the annual "State of the City" address and dinner May 12 at the city hall galleria.

Honorees are Barbara Smith, who operates the "West Sacramento Photo of the Day" website; Cathy Lorda, retired longtime children's librarian at the Arthur F. Turner branch library; Danny Lunda, of www.westsacweb.com; and Thomas Ansler and Carlos Machado, of Google Fiber for West Sacramento, which is seeking to attract a partnership with Google to install high-speed Internet fiberoptics.

The theme of the mayor's address will be "Realizing the Vision," said city spokesperson Art Schroeder.

Tickets are available from the West Sacramento Chamber of Commerce, 371-7042 or www.westsacramentochamber.com.

Attacked by dogs

A West Sacramento man reports being chased an attacked by a pair of "pit bull" dogs in an incident Sunday, April 25, on the 1600-block of Hobson Avenue.

According to Vicky Fletcher, Chief Animal Services Officer for Yolo County, a man whose last name was Zamudio later reported that he had been leaving his fenced yard on Hobson when he saw the dogs – one adult and one juvenile. They began barking and running at him. When Zamudio reached for a pocket knife he was carrying, the adult female lunged and bit him on both forearms, leaving lacerations and punctures.

Zamudio's girlfriend, Rita Gomez, was inside the house and heard him yelling. She called 911.

Zamudio retreated from the dogs back into his fenced yard and into the home. When fire and ambulance personnel responded, he was taken to the hospital.

Animal Services officers contacted dog owner Octavio Romero at 1609 Hobson. He released both dogs to their custody.

"The dogs will remain in the custody of Animal Services for quarantine and then (be) humanely euthanized," said Fletcher in a press release.

Census workers making rounds

The U.S. Census Bureau announced that households that haven't returned their census forms began receiving knocks on their doors last weekend.

Census workers will visit these households to try to collect census information from them, in the Constitutionally-mandated effort that takes place once every ten years.

Census workers carry ID badges with a Department of Commerce watermark, and won't ask for your citizenship status, Social Security numbers, credit card or banking information. For information, visit www.2010census.gov.

Coaches honor RC's Dave Brooks

Tennis program at River City High School has grown even faster than the campus itself

DAVE BROOKS

■ 20-year coach is proud of 14 conference championships -- and of his 'great kids' and their GPAs

By Steve Marschke & Daryl Fisher News-Ledger Editors

After 14 conference championships in 20 years at the helm of River City High School's tennis team, Coach David Brooks has received a state-wide coaching honor.

He has been named "coach of the year" in girls' tennis by the California Coaches Association.

How did he get nominated for the honor?

"I don't know," Brooks said with a laugh. "I was informed by my athletic director, Char Ghio. She said 'you've been nominated for this, and you'd better fill these papers out. They wanted to know about our league record, our number of championships and so on. It's not really based on one year,, it's based on all we've done in the past 20 years."

Brooks is an '84 grad of the River City. He's married. He and his wife, Sylvia, have a rbbit named Fred.

In two decades as tennis coach for the school, he's seen the school grow, and the tennis team grow even more.

"Before, we'd have about 15 or 20 kids on the team. The school size has doubled. And the number of the kids on the team has tripled or quadrupled. Now, we have 57 kids on the team."

Ironically, the award comes to Brooks in a rare "second place" season.

"We won 14 years in a row, but not this year. We had two losses," he said of his season.

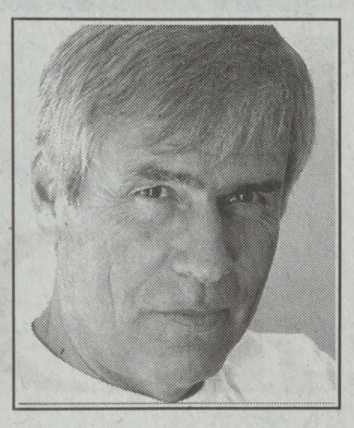
In an email to supporters, Brooks noted his "good fortune" in being coach of the tennis team, and pointed out that of the "nearly 60 kids on this year's team, fewer than five had GPAs below 2.5, while over 20 had GPAs of at least 4.0! Great kids, but I'm a little biased," he said.

LuAnn Watkins is a former high school teammate and doubles partner of Brooks. She now works for Washington Unified School District.

"I don't think there's anyone more deserving of the California Coaches Association 'coach of the year' award than Dave Brooks," said Watkins. "He's a terrific coach, as you can see by the large number of student athletes who come out for his tennis team each year. Over the past 20 years, he has developed an outstanding program that not only produces great tennis players, but also great young adults. And it seems like just yesterday that we were winning mixed doubles tournaments together, thanks to Dave's awesome service and volley!"

The 'Greatest Generation' won't be here to save us

My Back Pages



By Daryl Fisher

I was talking to a longtime News-Ledger subscriber the other day and he asked me why I haven't been talking much about politics in my column lately, to which I simply replied, "To tell you the truth, I'm pretty much fed up with American politics nowadays, aren't you?" And when he asked me to be a little more specific, here is some of what came to mind:

Camus once wrote that "Politics and the fate of men are shaped by men without ideals or nobility; those who possess nobility are not in politics." And although I guess that has always been the case to one degree or another, never in my life have I seen our country so overflowing from coast-to- coast with so many worthless and gutless politicians. Take the recent health care bill for instance that caused so much heated debate for more months than I care to count. Everyone knows – or should know by now – that a country as rich as ours has long needed to step up to the plate and provide every American with the opportunity to purchase basic health care insurance for themselves and their family. Yet the final bill that was produced turned out to be only a first step in that direction because of politicians playing politics. Where was the single-payer system that would have actually lowered costs? Well, Republican politicians screamed that it would lead to socialized medicine, an argument that is so phony it's laughable. I mean, what do they think Medicare is? And on the other side of the coin, where was the much needed tort reform in the bill? It's ridiculous that doctors will have to continue to pay outrageously high malpractice insurance because Democratic politicians caved in to their lawyer lobby friends instead of doing what was best for the country. Litigation and damage costs for personal injury cases are outrageously expensive in this country, and our doctors are losing their practices because of it. Anyway, everything that is wrong with American politics nowadays was on vivid display for everyone to see during the health care bill debate.

But even worse than the politicians is the way politics is now discussed in the public arena. It's almost as if the majority of people in this country are no longer even interested in the truth, but would much rather just surround themselves with like-thinking people and call it a life. Everywhere one looks, there seems to be ditto-heads on both the right and the left. I mean, how in the world did idiots like Rush Limbaugh and Keith Olbermann and Glen Beck ever become popular spokesmen in American politics? And since when did being a money-hungry quitter qualify the Sarah Palin's of this world to tell others how our nation should be run?

And if national politics weren't bad enough, look at the choices we're being offered in the very important upcoming race for governor in California. On the Democratic side, 72-year old Jerry Brown is running, and although he was actually a pretty decent governor a few decades ago, the only things I can remember that really impressed me about him were that he was personally frugal and that he also somehow got Linda Ronstadt to date him for awhile. So in terms of his well-known last name, I'm afraid what this state really needs is for his long-dead father (an excellent California governor in the 1960s) to run again. And as for the likely Republican candidate, Meg Whitman, I learned a long time ago that if you're not sure who you want to vote for, it's always a good idea to vote against the person who is spending bizzillions of dollars trying to buy the election. Plus how can anyone seriously consider voting for a candidate who has rarely voted herself? And of course after the incredible economic meltdown that the captains of finance and corporate America just gave us, it seems to me that the very last thing California needs in charge of its future is a former big time, ridiculously overpaid CEO.

Anyway, this I do know. Not only are our politicians apparently incapable of doing their jobs (maybe 'unwilling' is the kinder word), but it also won't be long now before all of America's greatest generation is dead and gone and they won't be here to save our bacon anymore. Even the youngest of them are in their 80s now and they are filling up our graveyards with each passing day. And going with them seems to be their incredible work-ethic, their common decency, and most important of all, their ability to sacrifice for the good of everyone. I'm talking about men and women who were too tough to let others fight their wars for them, as we now do with our volunteer soldiers who (along with their families) make all the sacrifices necessary to keep our nation safe; and mothers who filled up school auditoriums at PTA meetings because they were determined to get their children properly educated; and fathers who would take any job they could find to support their family rather than rely upon government programs to do it for them; and men and women who knew how to actually save money rather than buy a bunch of crap they didn't need with credit cards they couldn't afford.

America's greatest generation certainly wasn't perfect, but they did know how to do the one thing that is absolutely necessary in difficult and dangerous times to keep this nation "a bright shining city on a hill" – they knew how to all pull real hard on the very same rope together. And God help us if we – and our elected politicians — don't somehow figure out how to do that soon, too.

There seem to be 'ditto-heads' on both the right and the left. I mean, how in the world did idiots like Rush Limbaugh and Keith Olbermann and Glen Beck ever become popular spokesmen in American politics?

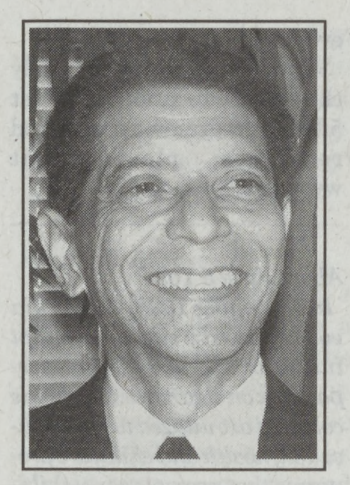
SPORTS INSIDER



By Richard Novoa

The big news in Sacramento last week was Tyreke Evans being named the 2010 NBA's Rookie of the Year! Evans, who beat out a couple of other talented guards in Stephen Curry and Brandon Jennings, had an incredible year and is now being compared to NBA greats like Oscar Robertson, Michael Jordan and LeBron James.

Evans led the Kings in scoring with 20.1 points and 5.8 assists per game but it was his overall play that led to Tyreke being crowned the Rookie of the Year. Evans became the fourth rookie in NBA history to average 20 points, five rebounds and five assists per game.

Also, Sacramento's newest professional football team, the Mountain Lions, announced their UFL 2010 season schedule which will open up on the road September 18th at Hartford, Conn. The Lions home opener will be Saturday, Sept. 25th against the Florida Tuskers.

The UFL, a minor league organization that will feed players to the NFL rosters, will open up their season on Sept. 17th with their championship game scheduled for the weekend of November 26-27th at a site to be determined.

Diamond Notes

The Giants (14-10) enjoyed a nice home stand winning 6 out 9 games and came real close to sweeping the Phillies until their closer, Brian Wilson, blew up and lost a 4-1 lead that robbed Lincecum of his fifth win of the year. Overall, the Giants starting pitching staff has a major-league-best 2.47 ERA and if you only include Lincecum, Zito, Sanchez and Cain, their ERA goes down to 1.83 with an 11-2 record.

The Giants offense is still being led by the Kung Fu Panda, Pablo Sandoval, who was leading the National League in batting until the Rockies ended his 10 game hitting streak. Aaron Rowand returned to the G-Men's line-up after spending 15 days on the disabled list with three fractures around his left eye and cheek. In his absences Andres Torres hit .316 (12-for-38) and was a major contributor to the 35 runs the Giants scored during their last home stand.

The A's (13-14) are still hanging around first place in a division that separates first and last place by only 2 games. The A's ended their road trip going 1-5 but it's their starting pitching that took a major hit last week posting an 11.98 ERA on the road and to make matters worse, Justin Duchscherer is out with a strained hip and Ben Sheets was pounded into submission again.

Sheets (1-3) was hammered for the second consecutive start giving up 10 hits and nine runs in 3 ½ inning in Toronto. In his last two starts Sheets gave up 19 hits, 17 earned runs, and five home runs in 7 innings. The good news is that Gio Gonzalez won his second game in row in Toronto allowing only 3 hits and two runs to help bring down the team ERA from 13.23 in the first four games.

The A's called up rookie catcher, Josh Donaldson, from the River Cats to fill in for Kurt Suzuki and the ex-River Cat didn't disappoint, hitting a home run in for his first major league hit. The A's biggest problem is at the gate drawing only 8,874 fans for their Monday night game which was the lowest since April 3, 2003 when only 6,295 fans paid to see A's baseball.

The Giants are off to Florida this week and finish up in New York against the Mets this weekend while the A's prepare to host the division leading Rangers followed by a weekend series against the red-hot Tampa Bay Rays.

River Cats

The Cats (11-14) finished their road trip 4-4 and are now at the bottom of the Pacific South Division but the Cats still lead the league in attendance averaging around 8,300 fans per game. The Cats, who are 9-7 on the road, have only won 2 of their seven home games.

The River Cats pitching staff leads the PCL in strikeouts which has their

GUEST COMMENTARY: talk to your kids' teacher

From First 5 Yolo

Early learning teachers play a significant role in nurturing young children's growth and fostering a love of learning.

"It is well established that providing children with quality early learning is essential in developing the language, cognitive and social skills they need to succeed in school and in life," said Julie Gallelo, executive director of First 5 Yolo.

In honor of "California Day of the Teacher" on May 12, First 5 Yolo offers parents the following tips to help support teachers and providers in their goals to support healthy childhood development and help kids build a solid foundation for success.

Get Involved

Teachers and providers always appreciate when parents are actively involved in their kids' education.

· Talk to your children every day about their experiences at school and ask them what they learned.

· Attend open houses, PTA meetings and parent-teacher conferences to build a strong relationship with your child's teacher.

· Ask the teacher what you can do to get involved in your child's education.

Meet With Your Child's Teacher

· Before meeting with the teacher, think about what you want to know and understand about your child's school experience and ask your child how he or she feels about school, the teacher and other students. Write down key questions you want to ask.

· During the meeting, be clear about what's being said. If you need clarification or have concerns about the teacher's answers, ask for further explanations until you fully understand what's being said.

· After the meeting, follow up at home with your child. Talk about what was discussed and focus on the positive and how to achieve any goals that may have been set.

Communicate Often

It can be challenging for busy parents to speak with teachers often, but there are other ways to maintain regular contact.

· Introduce yourself at least once in person and check in when you can through e-mail, handwritten notes or phone calls, depending on the teacher's preferences.

· Keep track of your children's progress, even if they are performing well. Teachers like to hear from parents and know they are engaged in their child's education.

Read Daily

Reading aloud to your children every day helps them develop skills for school success.

· Encourage your children's interest in books by talking about stories they like and providing books they will enjoy.

· Take time to read a book yourself. Kids learn by example, so if they see you reading, they will want to read, too!

· Spend time together at your local library looking for books, reading and attending events.

About First 5 Yolo:

In November 1998, California voters passed a statewide ballot initiative to add a 50-cent-per-pack tax on cigarettes. The funds collected are utilized to fund education, health and childcare programs that promote early childhood development from prenatal through age 5. parent team, the A's, calling up their starting pitchers. Trevor Cahill was called up last Friday to make his first start of the year for the A's but Cahill was shelled by the Blue Jays for eight runs which included three home runs. Cahill, who made 32 starts as a rookie last year, allowed 29 home runs in 2009 for Oakland.

The A's have been calling up other players especially with all their injuries which included catcher Josh Donaldson and on Monday the A's called up Vin Mazzaro to fill in for injured pitcher Duchscherer. Also, Jack Cust is starting to hit the long ball and has an eight game hitting streak raising his average to a respectable .270 with four home runs and 13 RBI's.

The River Gatos are home his week with a three-game series against Salt Lake City followed by a four game set against Colorado Springs starting on Friday night.

NBA Playoffs

The NBA semi-finals tipped off last week with the Lakers taking the first game at home in the Western Conference best of seven series against the Utah Jazz and the Phoenix Suns beat San Antonio in game one of their series. The Lakers should take care of the Jazz in six games but the Suns may have their hands full with a newly recharged Spurs line-up. I like the Suns chances against an aging Tim Duncan at center, Phoenix wins in 7 games but not until this two teams battle in a couple of overtime thrillers!

In the East, the NBA's MVP, LeBron James, is leading the Cavs against the Boston Celtics and the Atlanta Hawks will try to upset the well rested Orlando Magic. The Cavs are in for a battle with Boston but King James will lead the charge but the Cavs will win in 7 games and the Magic will handle the Hawks in five games.

Enjoy your day – Happy Mother's Day!

Health Dept. offers vaccine

From the Yolo County Department of Health

Because Novel H1N1 is still causing illness and some groups of individuals have experienced higher hospitalization rates and mortality rates due to the Novel H1N1 flu, the Yolo County Health Department is encouraging the community to continue to protect against the Novel H1N1 flu virus by getting vaccinated.

The Health Department is continuing to hold free vaccination clinics through June. The first will be held on Monday, May 3 from 2:00 to 5:00 p.m., at the Yolo County Health Department at 137 N. Cottonwood Street in Woodland. Additional clinics will be held in other parts of the county, including one clinic from noon to 3 p.m. on Thursday, May 27, at the Broderick Christian Center in West Sacramento.

Nurses will administer the vaccines and Spanish speakers will be available. There is no cost for this vaccine.

Pregnant women are strongly encouraged to get vaccinated. Data from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) show that pregnant women accounted for 5% of the deaths from Novel H1N1 during the peak outbreak from April through August 2009, but pregnant women make up only 1% of the population.

While the number of cases has gone down since the fall outbreak, flu activity is ongoing and expected to continue through the summer. The CDC estimates that by the end of February 2010, one in four Americans had received the vaccination.

OPINION

NEWS-LEDGER EDITORIAL:

Bottoms-up approach to controversial bridge

If you have ever spent part of your afternoon getting onto the freeway eastbound from Jefferson Boulevard at the afternoon rush hour, then you understand part of the reason West Sacramento has wanted a new bridge to I-5 ever since there has been a West Sacramento. The US 50/I-5 interchange needs some relief. Using the onramp from Jefferson puts a driver right into the worst of it. Some kind of alternative connection to I-5, especially for Southport commuters, would help.

When West Sacramento was a young city, local officials thought a good solution would be to build a bridge to Sacramento – or at least to I-5 – from the Linden Road area (there was not yet a Lake Washington Boulevard). Opposition from residents of Sacramento's southern neighborhoods, including Land Park, was intense.

"Over my dead body!" was how one Sacramento city councilman put it, privately, to one West Sacramento councilman. Land Park residents feared extra traffic on their streets. They particularly feared West Sacramento traffic on their streets, as this city had a greater stigma of crime and poverty than it does now.

More recently, Sac and West Sac have learned to play nice when planning their riverfronts. And, while Sacramento's leaders still have to worry about pleasing their constituents in Land Park and the Pocket area, they also know that some more riverfront connections make sense. In the past few years, the talk has shifted to the concept of a possible bridge over the river farther north, at Broadway. But the talk has stalled.

A new effort is underway, and this one might work. Both cities are working together on a different approach. They are starting by bringing together "stakeholders," including representatives of different neighborhood associations. They're asking them what kind of connections might be needed, and where they should go. The idea is to start from the grassroots and work upwards toward a solution, instead of having city leaders propose an idea which then gets shot down by citizen activists.

The effort is somewhat democratic, in that it starts with input and ideas from a fairly broad cross-section of citizens. It's also politically astute, since it tosses the football to some of the very people who have long been standing in the way, and says "here, you help figure out if there is a problem, and you help figure out the best solution." The process may have the effect of bringing some of the traditional opponents of a new bridge along for the political ride. This could help give the final recommendations some added legitimacy, and help neutralize some of the potential opposition to the final proposals.

The organizers of this new effort to plan "crossings" between the cities may in fact already have a good guess or two about what those final recommendations will be. But they see value in the process itself.

If they're right, we may finally get that new bridge.

Letters to the Editor

Good Samaritans

It is heart-warming to know that there are still people who will go out of their way to help a total stranger. That is why my husband and I would like to sincerely thank the three good Samaritans who stopped and gave aid to him when he had fallen on the sidewalk in front of our home on Jefferson Boulevard on April 27th. We failed to get their names, but hopefully they will read this letter and know that we are very grateful for their caring and compassion. Here's hoping that their good deed will be returned to them tenfold. Incidentally, after applying first-aid, his injuries were not severe enough to require medical attention. Thank you again.

Donations appreciated

I recently read a letter to the editor back on March 24th that Ms. Rebecca Kain and members of the IORG had donated some wonderful supplies to the Special Education Program at River City High School. I have the privilege of working with these young adults on a daily basis. It may be a challenge at first, but most of all it is very rewarding to see their progress from freshmen to seniors, and to know that they are ready to conquer the world.

The supplies will be put to very good use and we appreciate the donation. They are young adult students who want to learn, create, and be successful. Their dreams will come true. Thank you.

Help for families

Economic recovery may be on the horizon, but for many, times are still tough. In response to so many people needing assistance, First 5 Yolo and the Yolo County Children's Alliance (YCCA) are partnering to provide two critical services for vulnerable families and young children in Yolo County during times of financial stress.

Public health nurses (PHNs) provide a vital service in the community. Yet, due to budget cuts, most of these positions have been eliminated in Yolo County. First 5 Yolo is providing financial support so the county can have at least one public health nurse. A portion of the nurse's time is spent in home visits as part of the YCCA Step by Step/Paso a Paso program. These home visitation services are for high-risk pregnant and new mothers and high risk infants, such as premature infants. An example of the types of cases managed by the PHN is a young mother with a history of depression and marijuana use. She has toddlers in the home as well as an infant. The infant has numerous congenital malformations. This mother needs assistance accessing appropriate medical and mental health services, as well as California Children's Services and breastfeeding support. The PHN helps her navigate the system and get the help she needs.

Children can't succeed in school if they are hungry. To help, the YCCA's West Sacramento office has a food distribution program funded by First 5 Yolo to serve West Sacramento residents in conjunction with the Yolo County Food Bank and Kaiser Permanente. The food program operates every Friday providing free fresh fruits and vegetables along with assistance with food stamp applications, free or low-cost health insurance enrollment and other critical services.

Families are encouraged to contact the YCCA or First 5 Yolo to learn about programs to help them get the care and services they need for their children. Visit us at www.first5yolo.org and www.yolokids.org for information.

GO FIGURE! by Linda Thistle

PICKS OF THE WEEK

"Daria: The Complete Animated Series" (Unrated) — "Smart and funny" aren't two adjectives you normally associate with MTV programming, but "Daria" is one of the few exceptions. Debuting in 1997 as a spin-off of the popular "Beavis & Butt-Head," "Daria" centered on the life of sardonic teenager Daria Morgendorffer, as she and her bestie Jane skewer pop culture and try to avoid the popular kids at their upper-middle-class high school.

The DVD includes all five seasons of the show, plus the pilot episode and both made-for-TV movies. Special features include interviews with the cast and crew, two Mystik Spiral music videos, Daria Day intros and a Top Ten Video Countdown hosted by Daria and Jane.

"M" (The Criterion Collection) Bluray (Unrated) — Iconic director Fritz Lang's chilling story of the hunt for a child murderer finally gets the high-def, Criterion Collection treatment. Peter Lorre stars as "M," the child-killer who is so expert at eluding the police that the criminal underworld takes it upon themselves to hunt down the psychotic monster.

Two versions of the film are included in this edition: The original German production and the long-lost English-language version. Both have been restored using a hi-def digital transfer process. Among the tons of special features are: audio commentary by German film scholars Anton Kaes and Eric Rentschler, a one-hour conversation with Fritz Lang by "Exorcist" author William Friedkin, a commemorative booklet and a 1963 interview with Lang.

"Toy Story"/"Toy Story 2" (Special Editions) (Rated G) — Coinciding with this year's release of "Toy Story 3," Disney/Pixar are re-releasing the first two classic adventures featuring Buzz Lightyear, Woody, Slinky Dog, Rex and all the rest. There are no new special features on these editions (except for some "Toy Story 3" marketing stuff), so if you already own the films, there's no need to rush out and grab these.

I have a copy of the now-discontinued three-disc "Ultimate Toybox" DVD set, which includes both films and a third disc packed with special features. What I'm hoping is that Disney will do a similar release for the holidays that will include all three films and perhaps a fourth disc of features. So yeah, wait a while. I'll bet that's what'll happen.

Peter Lorre stars in "M"

DOG OF THE WEEK

"Legion" (Rated R) — If you were suckered by the trailers for "Legion," you probably went in thinking it was going to be a tongue-in-cheek horror comedy, a la "Drag Me To Hell." Sadly, it wasn't. Instead, "Legion" is a mindless, CGI poopfest about Angels and Demons slugging it out at a remote diner because some pregnant chick might be carrying the messiah. Knock-knock. Who's there? Armageddon. Armageddon who? Armageddon outta here and goin' to watch a better movie.

A Kingdom Strange: The Brief and Tragic History of the Lost Colony of Roanoke
by James Horn
(Basic Books, $26)
Reviewed by Larry Cox

What happened to the lost colony of Roanoke remains one of the most intriguing mysteries in our national history.

In May 1587, 118 men, women and children sailed from England for the Chesapeake Bay. After three difficult months at sea, the group arrived not at their planned destination, but rather Roanoke Island off the coast of present-day North Carolina. The colony planned to establish the City of Raleigh, named for Sir Walter Raleigh, who hoped the settlement might grow into a thriving port.

Faced with attacks from local Indians, the group moved inland. When they began to run short of supplies, their leader, John White, returned to England for help, but it was three long years before he was able to return to Roanoke. When he did, he discovered the colonists had vanished, leaving only the word "Croatoan" carved on a tree. Even after 423 years, the fate of the colonists remains a baffling riddle.

Dr. James Horn, historian and author, sheds new light on the lost colony of Roanoke in his new book. Horn is convinced the colonists did not intend to establish an agricultural settlement, but instead to use it as a base for explorations into the interior, where they believed both gold and a passage through the mountains to the Pacific Ocean could be found.

According to Dr. Horn, when White returned to Roanoke and found the strange message, he assumed the settlers had gone to live with friendly Indians on Croatoan Island, about 50 miles south. Dr. Horn builds a solid case that even though some of the colonists did, indeed, go to Croatoan Island, most of them journeyed into the mainland to settle along the Chowan and Roanoke Rivers.

After more than four centuries, Dr. Horn brings us as close to the truth of what happened to these early colonists as we are apt to get. This is historical reporting at its very best.

The Kitchen Diva BY Angela Shelf Medearis

On Mother's Day, Keep It Simple in the Kitchen

My husband's culinary skills begin and end with making a great pot of coffee. With that in mind, I've created a simple Mother's Day dinner recipe that even a non-cook can successfully follow. Preparing a meal is one of the best ways to show someone you love them. After all, the origin of Mother's Day is rooted in a daughter's love and respect for her mother.

In 1905, after her mother's death, Anna M. Jarvis began a campaign to recognize her mother's work as a community activist and peace advocate, and to honor her memory. It took several years, but in 1914, President Woodrow Wilson signed a bill recognizing Mother's Day as a national holiday. The House of Representatives also adopted a resolution recommending that officials of the federal government wear white carnations on Mother's Day.

Here's a simple recipe for Pasta With Spinach. The step-by-step directions will ensure a successful result for even the most unskilled cook, and create the perfect meal for the Moms we love.

BEGINNER'S PASTA WITH SPINACH

- 8 ounces Angel Hair pasta
- 1 gallon cold water
- 4 teaspoons salt (for water)
- 2 tablespoons olive oil
- 2 tablespoons unsalted butter
- 1 can (14.5 ounce size) diced tomatoes
- 1 tablespoon Italian seasoning spice
- 1 package (10-ounce) pre-washed baby spinach
- 1/2 cup sour cream or feta cheese
- 2 tablespoons prepared basil pesto

TO COOK THE PASTA:

1. Fill a large, tall stockpot with the water, turn heat to high and bring water to a boil.

2. When water begins to boil, add the salt. (Adding the salt to the water now is necessary because it's the time when the pasta absorbs it best. Do not add oil of any kind. Oil will coat the pasta, and the sauce will not stick.)

3. Hold the pasta vertically over the boiling water and carefully slide it into the pot. Lower the heat to medium so the pasta water doesn't foam up and boil over the sides. As the pasta begins to soften, use a long fork or wooden spoon to push the pasta into the water until it's submerged.

4. Turn the heat back up to high. Stir the pasta to keep it from clumping together. Stir every few minutes as needed to keep the pasta separated.

5. After 6 to 8 minutes, use the fork or spoon to pull out a piece of pasta. Taste it to see if it is soft, not raw or starchy-tasting. The pasta is done when it is "al dente," which is Italian for "when it is right for the tooth," and refers to the correct cooking point of pasta. If the pasta isn't done, let it continue to cook another 2 or 3 minutes until it's soft but firm — not mushy or overcooked.

6. Fill a coffee cup with some of the pasta water and set it aside to use when making the sauce.

7. Place a large colander in the sink. Using potholders to protect your hands, carefully move the pot to the sink. Carefully drain the pasta into the colander.

8. Pick up the colander with the potholders and shake it well to remove any excess water from the pasta. Do NOT rinse the pasta.

9. Place the drained pasta back into the large pot and start making the sauce.

TO MAKE THE SAUCE:

1. Using a large saucepan, over medium-high heat, melt the butter and add the olive oil. Add the tomatoes, Italian seasoning and spinach, a few handfuls at a time, and stir to combine.

2. When the spinach begins to wilt, stir in the sour cream or feta cheese and the pesto.

3. Pour the sauce into the large pot containing the drained pasta. Turn the heat to low.

4. Mix the sauce and the pasta together until well-combined.

5. Use a 1 or 2 tablespoons of the pasta water to thin out the sauce, as needed.

6. Place the finished pasta in a large bowl and serve immediately with garlic bread or rolls. Serves 6.
